

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed is a print apparatus and an automatic display language setting method. The automatic display language setting method for a print apparatus connected to a host device through a communication interface and communicating with the host device through the communication interface, comprises the steps of determining whether certain language information has been received through the communication interface from the host device; and setting up a display language of a print apparatus, if it is determined that the language information has been received from the host device, to display information on a display unit of the print apparatus in a language corresponding to the language information. Accordingly, since the present invention can automatically set up the display language of the print apparatus based on information provided from the host device, convenient manipulations of the printer can be provided to the users.